Breakfast. While in Mendoza, it is impossible to resist the temptation to visit the wineries that have made this province so famous. Mendoza is one of the most important winemaking poles in Argentina. Its wines have acquired worldwide recognition for their taste, aroma and color, especially its "malbec". We traveled the route of wine and saw some of the most important wineries in the area. We learnt about the varieties and the various winemaking regions in our country. An unforgettable experience for all our senses. On this tour we will learn about how man has turned a desert into an oasis by means of canals and irrigation ditches. The original system was created by the Huarpes indigenous people, is now run by computerized drip irrigation and has made Argentina one the main wine producers in the world. We will tour two wineries where enologists will explain the wine-making process and we will participate in a wine tasting session.
